Trail grant

Minden council has decided to give an additional $3000 to the Haliburton County Snowmobile Association to help pay for trail improvements. Please see page 2.

Award night

Successful High School students were honoured for their academic achievements at the annual awards night held on October 21. For a complete list of recipients please see page 7.

Swamp fever

An outbreak of Equine Infectious Anaemia (EIA), also known as Swamp Fever, in two local horses has got some local people worried. Please see page 10.

It was a classic battle last Wednesday when the HHSS Redmen Senior soccer team met on the field with their rivals from Fenelon Falls for the Kawartha West Championship game. This was the third consecutive year that these teams faced off for the title and it was the Falcons' turn to bring it home. A single goal early in the second half was the deciding factor in this evenly-matched struggle. The Redmen managed to crack the Falcons' strong defence on several occasions later in the game, but failed to put the ball into the net. The Falcons came away with the 1-0 victory, ending a great season for the Redmen.

Condo project clears hurdle

by Jay Kerr-Wilson

Ray Moore's condominium proposal was approved in principal by Minden Council last Thursday, but it took two votes to do it and was accompanied by some unusual procedures by council.

The matter had been held over since last month in order that some of the concerns of neighbouring property owners could be addressed.

The resident's group opposed to the development, represented by Mary Ann and Wayne Wilson; municipal planner Bob Lehman, and Barclay Taylor, the consultant representing the Moores, were all in attendance on Thursday night to try and resolve the remaining concerns.

Reeve Moore vacated the chairman's seat in order to avoid a conflict of interest. Normally in such cases, the reeve's chair is filled by the deputy reeve. Bern Berry, however, said he had "strong feelings" about this matter and wanted to vote on it, so he put forth a resolution to have councillor Lewis Stevens assume the chair.

Usually, the chairman of a council meeting only casts a vote in the event of a tie.

PAC decision angers local developers

by Jay Kerr-Wilson

The Minden Planning Advisory Committee has been accused of discrimination by two local developers.

During last Thursday's council meeting Terry Clarke, who along with Daryl Moore owns Trades Construction, made a public statement condemning the planning committee's decision to reject their severance application.

Moore and Clarke own a piece of property on Bobcaygeon Road across from the Holliday-Rhodes Medical Centre.

They have applied to sever the property and build an eight-lane bowling alley with apartments above.

The planning committee rejected the proposal by saying a traffic count study is needed because of the traffic that the alley will produce.

"We feel the Planning Advisory Committee overstepped its bounds by rejecting totally our application," said Clarke, who read the statement. "We have studied the (zoning) By-law 86-26 and it is our opinion that we are well above the minimum standards. There is no grey area."

"It is our opinion that we are being unfairly discriminated against by the ruse that a road traffic count study is required. If this is a high priority, then why wasn't the application deferred, rather than totally rejected?"

"For what reason, all of a sudden, is a study suggested?" asked Clarke. "To block our project?"

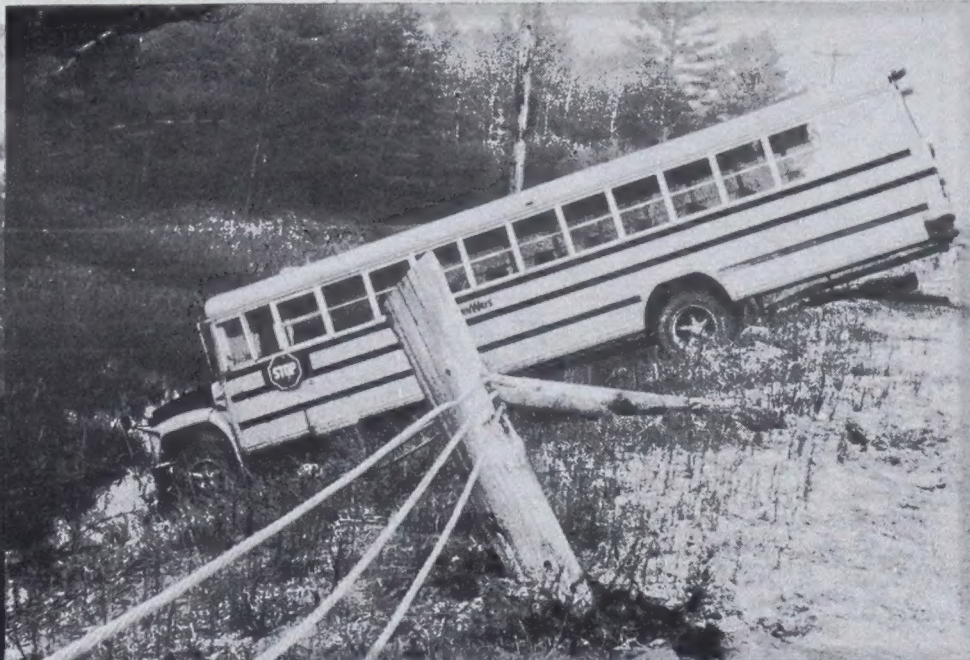

Clarke also questioned why committee chairman Dean Elliot didn't declare a conflict of interest in the matter considering that he lives across the road from the site of the proposed development.

"We ask, can he have an unbiased opinion?"

Both Moore and Clarke are related to Minden Reeve Ray Moore. Daryl is the Reeve's son and Clarke is his son-in-law but they say they are also "independent businessmen who came to Minden to put roots down, bring our families up in a progressive community, contribute our time, talents and skills for the good of the community."

All they ask, said Clarke, is to be

Bus crash on 121

The heavy morning fog being experienced in the Highlands recently probably contributed to a school bus going off the road at the corner of County Road One and Highway 121 on Wednesday.

Witnesses say the bus was returning from the school and no students were aboard when the accident took place.

It appears the driver missed the intersection due to poor visibility, smashing through the guard rail and plowing down the embankment into the stream at the bottom.

The vehicle hit the guard cables with enough force to pull one of the concrete anchors out of the pavement.

As of Friday police were unable to give any information because an accident report had yet to be filed by the investigating officer.

Bob Lake solution closer

by Jay Kerr-Wilson

The Bob Lake Association may have gained some ground in its struggle to have the township plow the lower portion of the Bob Lake Road.

Minden council decided in August to discontinue maintenance of the last 600 metres of the road on the recommendation of Road Superintendent Clayton Cameron, who says the road is too narrow to allow the road equipment to pass safely.

Since that decision, residents who live on the lower portion of the road have attended four council meetings in an effort to have the decision reversed.

At last Thursday's meeting, council suggested it may be willing to pay for a private contractor to main-

Council increases grant to HCSA Loop trail work

by Jay Kerr-Wilson

Minden council has agreed to donate an additional $3,000 to the Haliburton County Snowmobile Association to help pay for trail improvements in the township.

Where the additional money will come from has yet to be determined.

Association representative Mark Lester appeared before council last Thursday and said the HCSA has run into "formidable" financial problems.

This summer, the association undertook a major trail improvement program which included creating a 'loop' through Stanhope, Lutterworth, Dysart and Minden. Financing for the improvements was generated by a business levy on those businesses which directly benefit from the snowmobile season, and by contributions from the four municipalities involved.

Despite the success of the levy program, Lester said the association is still $35,000 in debt and has spent $8,800 on the improvements to the Nesbitt Trail in Minden township, a price tag he described as "staggering."

Dysart et al contributed 100 per cent of the bulldozing costs in that township, Lutterworth funded 90 per cent and Stanhope funded 75 per cent, said Lester.

He said the association had to ask Minden for additional help.

Deputy-Reeve Bern Berry said the township had already contributed $2,000 to the association this year.

Last time he approached council, in July, Lester initially asked for $15,000. When asked for the minimum amount the association would need, Lester told council they would require another $4,000, in addition to the $2,000 already donated.

The recent decision by Minden's Planning Advisory Committee to scuttle a proposal for a bowling alley in downtown Minden leads us to believe this committee is in desperate need of an overhaul.

At its most recent meeting this committee recommended the rejection of a severance that would have allowed for the construction of an eight-lane bowling facility. The property in question, located across from Dr. Holliday-Rhodes' clinic, has the zoning designation of Village Commercial and is ideally suited for this purpose. The township's official plan backs this up.

So why did they reject the proposal? Traffic flow. They say the development would create too much traffic on the main street.

That's what they said. But the developers' suspicion of it being "political wrangling and power struggles" seems more likely.

The absurdity of this committee's actions is beyond belief. These are the same people who not so long ago okayed a 56-unit condominium proposal that will have traffic emptying out onto an already-congested street beside the registry office.

The prospect of drawing more traffic into the village should be welcomed rather than shunned. Business owners in Minden only stand to gain by expanding the downtown core. They should be outraged at this committee (with the exception of Jim Garbutt, who stood in opposition to the other members) which seems bent on tossing aside a business that will provide a new form of recreation and attract people to town. We also note that this business is not in competition with any established business.

The developers, Daryl Moore and Terry Clarke, have a piece of property that is perfectly suited for their plans. It already has the proper zoning and the proposed severance more than meets the minimum guidelines. What they have in mind is bowling lanes with apartments above. They also plan to provide off-street parking, which is an added bonus. The severance they are asking for would allow them to split the lot and sell a part to another party who would then establish another new business.

It's encouraging to see commercial development finally starting to take place on this strip of Main Street. It's irritating to see it stymied by this committee.

If commercial development isn't desired on the village's main street where the official plan calls for it, then where is it to go? Dean Elliott, the committee's chairman and main opponent of this project, was on this committee when the official plan was drawn up. If Elliott, who lives on Main Street near this project, had concerns about traffic, he should have spoken up at that time.

If Moore and Clarke are correct in their assumption that the committee's decision is based on internal power struggles, then the chairman and members should be replaced.

Husband should be wary of childbirth experience

I have before me a report in the Canadian Journal of Anaesthesia suggesting that fathers should think twice before venturing into the delivery room to get "personally involved" in the birth of their children.

I have several responses to a proposal such as that -- two of which are: "no kidding," and "NOW they tell me."

Where were these experts when I needed them -- in the delivery room of St. Joseph's Hospital when my daughter was being born? This, of course was several years ago. Back in the Age of Mariposa and Woodstock -- a Caring, Sharing, Involved and Happening Era when friends in bandannas and denim would say "Naturally you'll be attending the birth with your wife." "Yup" you would reply. "Oh sure. You bet. Wouldn't have it any other way."

Black 'n White

by Arthur Black

But of COURSE you would share the sacred birth process. Wasn't that what Life Was All About?

Well, yes. Yes it is. But friends...

It's messy.

It's more than messy -- it's mortifying.

Thoreau once said: "Beware of any enterprise that requires new clothes." Black's Corollary reads: "Be extra leery of any enterprise that requires paper slippers and a surgical mask. That's what they dress maternity room Dad voyeurs in -- paper slippers and a surgical mask. Then they ask you if you mind if a class of student nurses watch the birth.

Now think about this: You are in a room with your wife who is naked and in some considerable distress. The two of you are poised uneasily on the cusp of one of the biggest days of your life. The authorities want to know if you'd mind if a herd of strangers takes notes. If it happened in your living room, at your office, on the street -- anywhere that was even close to your own turf, you would tell the authorities to go pound Sifto, but you are in a strange room full of sundry stainless steel mysteries not to mention tubes and dials and you are wearing paper slippers and a surgical mask. Cowlike, you nod your assent.

Is condo development really good for Minden?

Editor:

This letter is with regard to the land development taking place in the Village of Minden and the effect on the surrounding residents. Although prompted by the debate over the proposed condominium units, I am also concerned over the amount of development going on and the rate at which the developers want to push everything through. If Minden ever had an 'Official Plan' it seems to have been buried by those in pursuit of bigger (not necessarily better) things.

I would have thought that as the elected representative of this town, the Reeve would (should) be the one setting an example of how to look out for the best interests of the Village of Minden and its residents. Somehow, I'm not getting this impression. The Reeve, although being fair and just about removing himself so as not to be charged with conflict of interest, is succeeding physically but perhaps not 100 percent morally. As a business man first, and later as Reeve, I don't feel his obligations reversed priority as they should when you decide to hold public office. From a 'third party' point of view, it appears the race for the proverbial 'buck' has our Reeve out there in front with all of the other developers vying for position. The business of developing land within the Village must pose incredible financial gain -- what do they know that we don't?

The Haliburton Highlands has great tourism potential if handled right and we all know that tourism means money. We are lucky to be a small town with options.

A 56-unit condominium complex sounds impressive but will it actually achieve what we want? What target group will these units be geared to? Will these units be priced low enough for our regular townfolk to afford, or will it be a draw for more affluent residents only? Somehow I can't see our lower income population getting such a break. Will the disabled or our senior population want or be able to live there? That hill could be quite treacherous in the winter. And if no one actually buys these condos, do the ones on the bottom end up being re-zoned for business offices? Of the various pieces of land available in Minden, why is this one spot so desired considering all of the zoning problems and opposition? Perhaps if there was a concept drawing that could be printed along with the maps showing the re-zoning area, this may alleviate some of the concerns. This would also show, perhaps, that the Reeve has the community's best interest as a priority?

Moving here from Metropolitan Toronto, I find the lifestyle something worth fighting for. Most people move here, or stay here because of this rural atmosphere. If you want to prevent Minden from becoming mini-metropolitan, I suggest that the residents (both native and ex-city people) stand up and demand to have a say in how their town ends up. Some may laugh at my analogy but everything has to start somewhere and all of the great cities started out this small. I would bet that the residents of Bracebridge, Gravenhurst, Stouffville, etc., all sat back thinking it would never happen to them either.

I believe in growth and the positive effect it could have on this town, but let it be the controlled growth of our design and choosing, rather than quick decision made by those with the most to gain.

S. Archer,
Minden.

Public taking responsibility for the environment

When Archduke Ferdinand of Austria was assassinated in 1914, no one thought "Gee, this is the beginning of World War I". It's only when we look back and see events in the perspective of history that we recognize their significance. Nevertheless, something remarkable is happening now in the public's perceptions of environmental degradation. Polls reveal when Canadians are asked who is to blame for the environmental crisis, most say we all are. After the radio series, It's A Matter of Survival, was broadcast, listeners sent in almost 8,000 letters and most wanted to know what they can do as individuals.

The problem is that it's often difficult to know what to do or where to begin. But here and there, individuals are doing more than just talking. They are reassessing their attitudes and behaviour and trying to develop strategies for individual action. Collectively, this grassroots activity is a movement with profound social, political and economic repercussions. Here are two examples.

Andrea Miller lives in West Vancouver in a high income neighbourhood. She calls herself an environmental homemaker who was concerned with the problem of garbage. When she learned that Vancouver's garbage was going to be exported north to Cache Creek she was galvanized into action. She decided there would be no garbage crisis if there was no garbage. And she has been able to reduce her entire family's garbage output to under a bag a month!

It's a heroic achievement that takes far more than just composting all organic waste and recycling cardboard, paper, glass, metals, etc. It requires a major shift in personal priorities, attitudes and behaviour. For example, she does not buy anything that has plastic wrapped around it, she carries her own cup everywhere and uses traditional cleaners like borax, lemon and salt. Last January, Andrea began knocking on doors in her neighbourhood and inviting people to come over to her place with a friend. She enthusiastically shows her guests simple ways to reduce garbage output. With less garbage, she reasons, there will be less need for huge incinerators or dumps in other communities and all kinds of related benefits of saving energy, less pollution, conserving resources, etc.

To date, Andrea has held over 70 coffee klatches in her home and now gives at least three invited talks a week to groups ranging from nurses to schoolchildren. She has inspired others who have formed a group called WHEN (World Wide Home Environmentalists Network) which offers advice and help to people who want to be more environmentally responsible. WHEN is a volunteer movement founded on the belief that individuals can make a difference. For information, write WHEN,

Cheer up -- this is only the first assault on your dignity. Soon the doctor comes. You can tell he's the doctor because the maternity room staff defers to him. Besides, he's got the rubber gloves on and his surgical mask is regular issue cloth, not cheap paper like yours.

It's good that you have these clues to the doctor's identity because you'd never figure out who he was from his conversation. He talks like your garage mechanic. He chats about the weather and The Blue Jays and his golf game. He offers his analysis of the current stock market slump. He crows about the gas mileage he gets with his BMW.

And as he talks, this doctor -- this stranger! -- is doing unspeakable things with his hands to your soulmate. But casually! Offhandedly, as it were, like a butcher rearranging the cold cuts in his display cooler.

This is an outrage! A flagrant flouting of everything you hold dear! Are you just gonna stand there like a shnook and allow this to go on? Aren't you going to roar like a bull, rage like a tiger and put these interlopers in their place with your icy, rapier wit?

Wearing paper slippers and a surgical mask? Get serious.

In any case, it will soon get worse. The birthing process is moving along briskly. Your wife is howling and panting and perspiring, pausing only briefly to denounce you, at the top of her lungs, as the source of all pain and evil in the world. You ask her to remember the breathing exercises. She asks you to perform something that is both dexterously demanding and impossible to repeat in a family newspaper.

And now the doctor is brandishing a ... what is that thing anyway? A fencing sword? A jackhammer? A jousting lance? No. It is a needle. And he is going to give it to your wife OH MY GOD!!!

That's all I remember. They tell me I hit my head quite a clip on the stirrup on my way to the floor.

Did I mention that we had a beautiful baby girl?

My wife told me all about it in the recovery room.

Mine, not hers.

Residents ask council to delay by-law

Snowdon Township Council will be asked to postpone the final reading of its by-law for Bill Linnington's salvage yard in order to give opponents more time to collect ammunition to fight the proposal.

About 35 township residents gathered at the community hall in Gelert last Wednesday to form a "concerned citizens group." The group's mission is to combat Linnington's plan to set up a wrecking yard on his 21-acre property on County Road 1 in Gelert.

Snowdon Council has already given two readings to the by-law and plans to give the final reading at its next meeting on November 13. However, the citizen's group hopes to persuade council to delay the final reading to provide them with enough time to look into the issue and come up with the information they hope will sway council's voting.

Snowdon Reeve George Simmons, who attended Wednesday's meeting mainly as an observer, told the group that if they want council to turn this down, they will have to come up with some concrete reasons. Interviewed later, Simmons said Linnington has gone through all the proper channels with this project and all of council's concerns are being addressed in a seven-page agreement that is to be signed before the final reading.

Tom Dawson, who reluctantly agreed to co-chair this group, said they have their work cut out for them if they hope to sway council.

"The whole thing hinges on information," he said. "Feelings, emotions and opinions will not sway this thing but hard facts will."

One of Dawson's first orders of business after accepting the job of co-chairman was to set up committees to look into certain aspects of the proposal.

One committee will be studying the township's by-laws in hope of finding some loophole or a slip in procedures. The second committee will be looking at environmental aspects of the project and provincial regulations.

Selecting a chairman for this new group proved to be a problem. When no one volunteered for the post, people began nominating each other. Six people refused the job before Dawson and Walter Griffin finally agreed to share the responsibility.

Initially, Dawson refused to chair the group, citing a conflict. Like Linnington, Dawson said he too has development plans for his property. Dawson lives across the road from Linnington, where he produces maple syrup and opens a pancake house for a few weeks in the spring.

"I'm in the same boat as the other person," he said. "I'm trying to make something down at my place just like he is." He said that accepting the position would place him in some conflict. "It's not fair for me to start making comments about someone else's livelihood."

However, when no one else would take the job, Dawson agreed to share it with Griffin.

Wednesday's meeting was organized by Jean and Stan Farrell, who live on the Drag River near the proposed scrap yard. The most immediate concern is with the wrecking yard, but there was also some discussion about taking on other issues in the township in the future. Among the issues raised were the "go-go girls" at Gelert Gardens, the condition of the landfill sites and the use of a gravel pit. The group, however, opted to look only

Citizen of the Year

The Rotary Club of Minden has presented Jeanne Sears with the Citizen of the Year award. The presentation of the award was made at the club's regular meeting October 23.

Tribute was made to Mrs. Sears for her service to the community as a member of the Library Committee, Minden Women's Institute, Home and School Association and for the seventeen years she served as librarian. Her contribution to the fabric of the community as a newspaper correspondent for a number of area newspapers, including The Times, was also lauded. Just last month Jeanne retired as weekly correspondent and writer of the column, Around the County Town, in The Times.

Rotary District 701 Governor John Cockburn was in attendance last Monday night. He added to the tributes to Mrs. Sears, noting that through his work as a Ministry of Agriculture Representative in Peterborough, he was well aware of the importance Women's Institutes play in small communities like Minden.

In addition to the plaque presented to this year's recipient, the Minden club will make a donation to the charity of Mrs. Sears' choice. She has designated the Canadian Cancer Society to be the recipient.

This is the third year the Minden Rotary Club has presented this award. Previous Citizens of the Year included Don Crowe of Kawartha Dairy in 1987 and Val and Steve Lougheed, organizers of the Minden Sled Dog Derby, in 1988.

Minden Novices trounce Ops in opening game

The Minden Tri-County Novice B team had their season opener on Thursday night in Ops. They came out on top with a high score of 11-0.

Starting things rolling was Jarett Rowden with a hard shot from the blue line. Shortly after, B.J. Redner came back to score on a pass from Mitch Johnson. Only minutes later, Redner scored again, unassisted. Shawn Casey finished off the period with goal number four on a pass from Redner.

The second period proved to be good to some as Mitch Johnson scored a hat-trick assisted by Redner, Stephen Ecclestone, Gaten Davis and Casey. Redner also scored in the second giving him a hat-trick as well as Ecclestone once in the second and twice in the third. Other assists went to Brock Ladurantaye, Colin Mackenzie, Adam Durkin and Michael Hamilton. Jason Scott played a very defensive game helping Cory Bull earn his first shut-out of the season.

People are taking action

In another case, neighbours in a midtown section of Toronto began to meet and discuss It's A Matter of Survival. From casual conversations, they recognized that they all felt it was time to act on their concerns. So a note was sent to every house on the block announcing an environmental meeting. Fourteen people came (3 sent regrets) representing about three quarters of the families. The people came to act, not sit around and talk, and quickly agreed to a set of goals:

1) They will all work to clean up the environment around their own homes and neighbourhood.

2) They will enter into a vigorous and continuing correspondence with politicians at all levels of government. They will not be deterred by form letters and will persist with follow-up letters demanding dialogue. They will no longer vote for parties but on the basis of environmental leadership of candidates for office.

3) They will pursue individual environmental goals with the support of the group. Some of the projects embarked on under this category are interesting:

- a university teacher will try to stop the use of styrofoam containers at his institution;
- a member will find out how clean the city's water is and research the best filtration system;
- one is going to pressure the Board of Education to begin a massive tree planting program on all school property to start reforesting the city;
- another will compile lists of practical tips on how to live in an environmentally responsible way at home.

The group meets once a month and after its third meeting, will invite observers from other blocks so that other groups can be started. For information, write Amanda McConnell, 211 Albany Street, Toronto, Ont. M5R 3C7.

I have a hunch lots of individual initiatives like this are happening all over and will spread like flu in a daycare. It's all part of a profound reappraisal of our life styles and a shift that historians will eventually recognize as a movement or a revolution. Politics and business will not be the same when individuals and groups decide to take responsibility themselves.

Leadership hopeful visits with local Liberal group

by Jay Kerr-Wilson

Local Liberals got a sneak preview last Thursday of some of the issues which will be addressed in the upcoming Liberal leadership campaign.

Leadership hopeful Sheila Copps met with members of the Victoria-Haliburton Liberal Association at a luncheon gathering at the Admiral Inn in Lindsay.

Although Copps has not officially announced her candidacy in the race, she said she's made up her mind to run as long as she gets the necessary financial backing.

In a lively campaign-style speech, Copps outlined some of the areas she wants to see addressed in the leadership race.

Topping her list was an attack of Prime Minister Brian Mulroney and his Progressive Conservative government.

Last week, Mulroney was involved in a spat with British Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher over economic sanctions against South Africa. Copps borrowed a line from one Thatcher aide who said Mulroney has a "strong chin and a weak mind."

Although Mulroney's popularity has dropped to an all-time low, Copps said his ability to bounce back shouldn't be underestimated. She recalled September 1985, which is known as Black September by Conservatives because the governments was plagued by scandals and ministerial resignations.

"Who would have dreamed then that he would be re-elected with a majority?" she asked.

She referred to the government's Goods and Services Tax (GST) as the National Sales Farce (NSF) and said the GST "whether at five per cent, seven per cent or nine per cent is unacceptable and regressive. It will hurt those who can least afford to pay."

The tax will widen the gap between rich and poor and "create more of a two-class system," she said.

The government is setting the stage to reduce the GST rate from nine to seven per cent and spread it over a wider range of goods than already proposed, according to Copps. She is warning people not to be fooled and not to be conned because "Mulroney put the con back in Conservative."

Canadians want to support the Liberal Party, she said, but want to support a revitalized Liberal Party and even an abrasive Liberal Party.

Copps wants the leadership race to be idea driven and involve rigorous debate on issues. She says the time is past for politics based on personalities.

She attributes the Liberal's loss in last year's election to the infighting and attacks on John Turner's leadership from within his own ranks. She says the disunity caused the public to doubt the Liberal Party's capacity to work as a team.

Although only one candidate has come out openly to declare his intention to run for the leadership, Copps says the race will probably involve six or seven candidates. Besides herself, other likely contenders are Jean Cretien, Paul Martin Jr., and Lloyd Axworthy.

In addressing the future of the Meech Lake Accord, one of the hottest current political issues, Copps supported the intention of the accord and said its success is crucial to Canada's future.

The Accord, which must be ratified by all 10 provinces by next June, recognizes Quebec as a distinct society and gives the provinces more control over areas like senate reform.

Hamilton's Liberal MP Sheila Copps spoke out against Prime Minister Brian Mulroney's Conservative government last Thursday at a gathering of the Victoria-Haliburton Liberal Association. Copps criticized the proposed Goods and Services Tax, cuts to VIA Rail and the failure to pass the Meech Lake Accord. She intends to run for the leadership of the federal Liberal Party at the convention in Calgary next June.

The only provinces yet to ratify the Accord are Manitoba and New Brunswick and Manitoba. The Newfoundland government is considering withdrawing its support unless the accord is ratified.

Copps accuses Mulroney of being a political "horse trader" who is more interested in scoring political points than in saving the Meech Lake Accord.

To make her point about the importance of keeping Quebec in the federation, Copps delivered part of her speech in French.

She also spoke briefly in Italian when speaking of the importance that immigrants play in building a stronger Canada.

Copps has made the "personal, psychological" decision to run for leader but says she needs the financial backing and national organization to support her. She still has to raise about $1 million in order to support her campaign she said.

Reeve said concerns addressed by council at the salvage yard issue for the time being.

Although residents have the option of asking for an Ontario Municipal Board Hearing if council passes the final reading of the by-law, Dawson said that should rank low on the list of priorities because of the costs involved.

There is a standard appeal fee of about $125 for an OMB hearing. In addition, the parties must pay for their own representation. If council approves the project and hearing is demanded, council is expected to pay for a share of Linnington's defence. The level of the municipality's share depends on council, but is normally 40 per cent.

If, on the other hand, council votes against the project, Linnington has the option of calling for an OMB hearing. If the board decides in Linnington's favour, he could ask the board to award costs. If that request was granted, the township would be paying for 100 per cent of the defence costs.

Simmons said all of the environmental concerns that council has are being addressed in the agreement with Linnington. As long as the salvage yard is maintained in accordance with the agreement, he said it is a benefit to the township. The agreement allows council to keep it under control, he said. "It lets us get a handle on it."

As it now stands, people have to pay someone if they want a derelict vehicle removed from their property. Instead, many people opt to leave their abandoned cars sitting in their yards and fields. Linnington has said he will be willing to tow vehicles away for free.

Simmons compares the present situation to that of waste management. He said it is better to have the discarded vehicles all put in one place, rather than scattered throughout the area. In that sense, he said a salvage yard will be a benefit.

However, Simmons doesn't criticize the action of the concerned citizens group. "If they can find something wrong, I'll be the first one to praise them."

Need for trail funding overrides budget worries

Lester described the snowmobile association as another Chamber of Commerce which operates without funding and offers 12 weeks of winter tourism each year. He said the association does not make a profit and every cent they get goes back into maintaining the trail.

Councillor Bob Sisson asked Lester if the association had approached County Council to donate funds, but Lester said because the new Loop is centred in just the four townships, the county does not feel justified in contributing.

"We have a budget here too," said Sisson. "We don't know where the money will come from."

Berry said the township is approached, "by a lot of people asking for a lot of things."

Lester said he understands that the township isn't a bank but said that the snowmobilers pay their way, the businesses pay their way and the other townships had all addressed the benefits of the Loop and contributed.

He called snowmobiling the future of winter tourism in Haliburton County and said the association has taken a "do-or-die" attitude in carrying out the expansion this year.

Councillor Lewis Stevens said he'd like to see council increase the amount of their contribution to the association if the money is available. "We can't keep dishing out money. We have to make sure that when we come from and Lewis replied, "From the taxpayer; where all the money comes from. It all comes around."

Reeve Ray Moore suggested that council could consider making an additional grant to the association as part of the 1990

Berry said he had no problem with considering the donation when setting next year's budget.

Council asked Lester when the money would be needed. He said the association had to pay a $6,600 bill for the Minden bulldozing in the next 15 days.

Lester said the association believes in paying its own way, and doesn't like to have to ask for help. He said the large capital expenditures had to take place this year in order to accommodate the number of trail riders. He said the business levy should cover the maintenance costs of the trail. "I won't have to come back and stick my hand in your pocket," he said.

Stevens wrote a resolution to donate another $3,000 to the association to cover more of the improvement costs. Moore asked Berry, who is the financial officer, where the money would come from. Berry said he couldn't answer that because all department budgets are tight and some are running over budget.

The motion was passed by Moore, Stevens and Mike Maher with Sisson and Berry voting against.

"I don't know where you are going to get the money Bern," Moore said to Berry, "but you'd better start digging."

"We know the value of snowmobiling to the economy and have to support you - to a limit," Minden Reeve Ray Moore told HCSA member Mark Lester.

do, every inch goes into promoting the area as a whole."

Berry asked Lewis where the additional money would budget. "We know the value of snowmobiling to the economy and have to support you - to a limit," said Moore.

Politicians find the disease a touchy issue

years to accomplish that task.

Politicians, who ultimately decide the course to be taken to control such diseases, have a touchy issue when it comes to EIA. On the one hand there are horses out there with the disease that the owners consider to be family pets. They would have to be destroyed if widespread testing was implemented. On the other hand are breeders with valuable horses that are at risk of catching EIA. If people want mandatory testing, they will have to lobby the government, Boneshyne said.

John Francis, a Snowdon Township resident who owns several horses suggested that the Farmers Association should try to convince the government that more effective measures are needed to control EIA. He said the association should write to the federal government as well as draft a motion to be circulated to associations in surrounding areas.

"This is where it's got to start to keep it from spreading," said Francis. I know it's hard, a lot of these are family pets."

At the very least, Francis said it might be possible to convince the government to eliminate the option of confining a horse to a fly-proof barn—an option that many in Tuesday's audience objected to. Contacted later, Francis said he hopes the government will reconsider its "passive approach" to the control of this disease and at least provide partial funding as an incentive to have horses tested.

The option of placing a horse with EIA in a fly-proof barn was created to appease one breeder who owned a valuable Hanoverian horse. Boneshyne said the owner wanted to keep the horse alive for breeding purposes and his request was granted. The policy was designed for valuable horses with stud value, said Boneshyne. However, once an option is made available to one person, the same rules have to apply for everyone.

The idea of having one infected horse in the area, even if it is kept in a special barn, scares many horse owners in this area. Sinc Nesbitt, for example, noted that his horses are worth more than $100,000 and are within five miles of where Misty is being kept. He said it is impossible to keep flies out of a barn.

Boneshyne contended that if this horse is kept confined to its special quarters, "it should be of no consequence." He challenged Nesbitt to cite even one example of where the disease has spread from one of these barns.

"The person has a legal right to keep it there. You may not like it, I may not like it, but it's not my job to formulate policy."

Fly-proof barns are designed with screened double entrances. They have to be separated from other horses by at least 100 yards and the ministry makes random visits to ensure the horse is not being allowed to stray from its quarters.

Minden house damaged by fire on Monday

An estimated $40,000 damage was caused by a fire at a house at the base of Highland Gate Estates last Monday.

The cause of the fire, which appeared to have started in an attached garage, is undetermined. Minden Fire Chief Don Booth said the Fire Marshal's Office is conducting an investigation.

When firefighters arrived at the house owned by Bill Dennison, flames were leaping through the top of the garage entrance. Thick clouds of smoke could also be seen escaping beneath the eaves of the house. The firefighters had the major flames doused within minutes, but work continued for longer than two hours before all embers were snuffed.

Booth said the fire was reported by a neighbour early enough that firefighters were able to save much of the building. He said if the call had come five or 10 minutes later the entire house would probably have been lost.

Even with the early response, Booth said the damage was extensive. Both the garage and the lower part of the house were damaged by flames.

An early warning helped firefighters save this house in Highland Gate Estates in Minden from complete destruction when a fire was ignited in an attached garage last Monday. The fire caused an estimated $40,000 damage.

Health, social services review committee formed

Health and social services in Haliburton County will come under the scrutiny of a special committee.

The review is being carried out under the Haliburton, Kawartha and Pine Ridge District Health Council and the Peterborough office of the Ministry of Community and Social Services.

According to the press release announcing the study, "The review will provide an opportunity for the residents, organizations and providers of Haliburton County to work in partnership to develop a health and social services plan that is responsive to the needs of local residents. The plan will consider support services needed for existing and planned senior housing projects in the county."

The steering committee is currently being established and expects to meet for the first time in November. The review will include a number of public meetings. The steering committee is expected to report on its findings next later next year.

The review arises out of a meeting Health Minister Elinor Caplan held in September with representatives of the community. At that time the minister stressed the need to, "re-examine health care needs and services in light of new developments in the provision of long-term care and community-based health services."

According to the release, the review procedure being established here is in line with the minister's comments and current policy initiatives of the provincial government.

Developers want to be treated fairly by PAC treated fairly and without bias by the non-elected and elected municipal government. "However, it is evident that some members of the planning committee wish to overrule the established guidelines set out in the 1986 by-law.

"We are not interested in what appears to be political wrangling and power struggles," said Clarke. "We only wish to take our chances and establish a form of entertainment for the community, jobs for our family and others during the slower winter months, which is the prime time for bowling."

Clarke made his statement as council was considering passing the minutes of the Planning Advisory Committee where his application was rejected.

Just as he finished speaking Jim Garbutt, a member of the planning committee, stood to address council.

Garbutt asked that the resolution dealing with Clarke's application be struck from the minutes before being passed by council because of errors.

He pointed out that the names of the mover and seconder of the motion had been omitted from the minutes and the results of the recorded vote were also missing.

Lewis Stevens, who was chairing the meeting at that point because Reeve Moore had declared a conflict and left the chambers, suggested that the resolution could go back to the committee for correction.

However Deputy-Reeve Bern Berry, who also sits on the planning committee, said the omissions were merely the result of a typographical error and still reflected the wishes of the committee in rejecting the application.

Garbutt, who voted in favour of the severance application, asked that council not pass the minutes until the corrections had been made.

Berry said there was no reason to have the resolution pulled out and said "it's perfectly obvious what's going on."

Councillor Mike Maher said although the minutes could be amended by council he saw no harm in sending them back to the committee.

Berry said that no one on the committee has said Clarke couldn't bring his proposal back for more discussion, but he added that committee members get upset when an attempt is made to change their decision by "unusual methods."

When it came time to vote on whether or not to accept the minutes of the planning committee meeting, with the resolution dealing with Clarke's property intact, it ended in a tie vote with Bob Sisson and Berry voting to accept the minutes and Stevens and Maher voting not to.

Because of the tie, the motion was defeated. The minutes were not accepted and will be sent back to the planning committee for correction.

Home Hardware, Stamp Fuels share top spot

Home Hardware and Stamp Fuels have taken an early lead in the Minden Men's Recreational Hockey League, each sporting a record of two wins.

Home handily defeated The Times in the opening game last Monday night while Stamp Fuels crushed Westside Jug City. Hartwick Construction and the Rockcliffe Tavern fought to a high-scoring tie in game three.

HOME 8, TIMES 4

Home Hardware had little trouble getting the puck past The Times' defence and into the mesh behind goalie Terry Crowe in the 7 p.m. game Monday at the Minden arena. They scored twice in the first period, once in the second and five times in the third to hand The Times an 8-4 win, their first of the season.

Scott Hamilton, one of the top goal scorers from last season, notched his fifth and sixth markers of the new season for Home. Andy Campbell, Irwin Asbell, Doug Schell, Ed Gibbons, Barry Boice and Brian Marquart each added one goal to Home's tally.

Ivan Ingram again led The Times' attack with two goals—his seventh and eighth of the season. Andy McKenzie and Scott Gartshore scored one each.

STAMP FUELS 10, WESTSIDE 4

A third-period scoring spree by the Stamp Fuels squad carried them to an strong 10-4 finish over Westside in the 8:30 p.m. game.

Lawrence Lougheed led his team to the win with three of the six goals scored in the final period. Craig Crowe potted another two goals, bringing his total for the season to seven. Singles were scored by Greg Newell, Tom Haley, Greg Carpenter, Barry Ward and Daryl Ward.

The scoring for Westside came from Bernie Upton, Craig Smith, Merv Mintz and Sid McKeigen, each with one.

ROCKCLIFFE 9, HARTWICK 9

The first half of the 10 p.m. game Monday belonged to Hartwick. The last half belonged to the Rockcliffe. In the end, it was a 9-9 tie.

With Brian Shaw leading the way, Hartwick stormed onto the ice, taking a commanding 7-2 lead midway through the second period.

The Rockcliffe, however, led by Colin Newell stormed right back with seven goals of their own to take a 9-7 lead before Hartwick retaliated with two to salvage the tie.

Shaw scored four goals for the Hartwick club. Larry Sawyer added two and singles came from Jeff Howe and Dave Dollo.

Newell matched Shaw's scoring with four of his own for the Rockcliffe. Doug Ray, John Ballantyne, Tim Vezina, Ken Casey and Dean Hewitt each added one.

Council suggests it may pay for road plowing

tain the section of road in question.

Association Vice-President Ron Sullivan and Secretary Phyllis Wyper came to council to try and work out a solution.

Sullivan said the property owners have had many meetings and have "racked our brains" trying to arrive at a solution.

He said he's been coming to Minden for six years, pays property taxes and spends about $10,000 annually in the community. While his taxes support the township, Sullivan says he gets very little in return except for the road access.

The decision to stop the maintenance of the road had "truly upset" some of the residents, said Sullivan, and they were asking for council's help.

He described the situation as delicate and told council, "All we want is our road maintenance back and only you can do that."

At a previous meeting, council had told association president Ed Hisson that the township would need additional land deeded to Minden in order to widen the road to accommodate the snowplows.

Sullivan said some of the property owners are willing to give up "two, three or four feet to make a little more room."

The association also says that according to existing deeds and surveys, the township has a width of 20 feet for the road. Sullivan asked if the 20 feet plus the additional space from the property owners would help the situation.

Reeve Ray Moore said he has given the matter consideration and he suggested that the township could still maintain their turn-around at the top of the hill and pay a private contractor to plow the lower portion of the road.

He said the association and the township should sit down and negotiate a settlement.

Council decided have the road committee and Cameron meet with the residents and try and come to a solution.

Condo approved in principle by Council

Developer must submit engineer's report to address concerns of council and residents

(from page 1)

As it turned out, though, Berry could well have assumed the reeve's chair and cast a vote.

After discussion of the proposal, Berry read a prepared statement announcing his intentions to vote against the development and explaining his reasons.

Councillors Mike Maher and Bob Sisson expressed their reluctance to vote on the matter because they felt some of the concerns hadn't been adequately addressed.

Sisson said, if forced to vote, he could not vote to approve the development.

A resolution was put forth to reject Moore's application and a recorded vote was requested by Maher. Berry and Sisson both voted in favour of rejecting the development and Maher reserved his vote, which automatically counted as a vote against the resolution.

In normal practice, the development would have been rejected by a two-to-one vote because Stevens, as chairman, would not vote. But Maher noted that because it was a recorded vote Stevens was allowed to register his vote.

Clerk Mary Mysyk consulted the Municipal Act and discovered that the chairman can vote whenever he wants, as long as he's not in a conflict of interest.

Stevens registered his vote not to reject the development, which led to a tie. Because of this, the resolution to reject the development died on the table.

A second resolution was written to approve the development in principle subject to the developer providing an engineer's report which adequately addressed the concerns raised by planner Bob Lehman. This resolution passed with Berry casting the only negative vote.

Council will not pass the rezoning and official plan amendments necessary to allow the development until they've had a chance to study the engineers report and are satisfied with the development proposal.

Taylor, Moore's consultant, opened the discussion with a brief statement asking council to reach a decision. She said she realizes there are still outstanding issues, such as the location of a second access to the development, which haven't been addressed, but added that these concerns would best be dealt with in a site plan agreement. Trying to resolve all the concerns before the agreement would be "putting the cart before the horse", said Taylor.

She presented council with an undertaking, signed by the Moores, in which they agreed to enter into a site plan agreement with the township prior to a building permit being issued and within one year of the rezoning amendment being passed.

Taylor reiterated her arguments from last month's meeting that the project was appropriate for the site, would strengthen Minden's downtown core and provided much-needed rental accommodation for the area.

Speaking on behalf of the opponents to the development, Wayne Wilson presented council with a list of questions the neighbours felt still had to be answered. Stevens said he hoped council wasn't covering ground that had been covered in previous meetings. "I've heard of flogging a dead horse," he said, "but this one's buried."

Mr. Wilson said the development has a combined frontage of 214 feet on Newcastle and St. Germaine Streets and asked Lehman, Minden's planner, how much is required for a development of this size.

Lehman said that because the property would be zoned 'site specific' the frontage would be irrelevant. None of Minden's current by-laws cover apartment buildings of this size, he said, so council would design the zoning requirements to this specific project.

The next concern raised by the Wilsons was the amount of water and sewer capacity the condominiums would require. Mr. Wilson wondered about the wisdom of allocating a large amount of Minden's remaining sewer and water capacity to a single development.

The allocation of sewer and water is often the most important determining factor when evaluating proposed develop-case like this Berry said council "can't please the developer and the ratepayers."

The major concerns with the project have not been addressed, said Berry, and the increase in maximum density by more than 50 per cent is "too great".

Quoting from the official plan, Berry said council must have regard for the physical relationship between the development and existing land uses. In the case of Moore's condominiums, Berry said the development would alter the surrounding area so that "the neighbourhood that is there today will no longer exist." Placing residential units so close to the noise from the Rockcliffe Hotel would lead to future problems, said Berry.

The issue of closing the portion of the Milne St. allowance which runs behind the Rockcliffe to give the development the required area hasn't been addressed, said Berry, nor has the location of a second access to the units.

On the positive side, Berry said the case St. Germain was blocked at Newcastle for any reason, residents were afraid that emergency vehicles could not get to the development. However, Maher pointed out that MacKayville, the 59-house subdivision where he lives, has only one access, as does Highland Gate Estates.

Although the access problem is valid, Maher said he felt it was being overstressed.

In his 10 months on council, Maher said he never lost as much sleep over any issue as he did over Moore's development. He said he was not prepared to vote on the project until the outstanding concerns have been addressed.

Stevens said that Taylor had mentioned a plan to deal with the concerns through a site plan agreement if given a chance, "but it appears we wouldn't be giving them an opportunity to address the concerns."

Sisson echoed Maher's comments that there are still a lot of unanswered questions, and the only way to resolve the issue is to have an engineer's report. "I won't sit comfortably with this until we know that's the proper place for the building," he said.

Taylor said that the developers would not go ahead with an engineer's report unless council approved the project. "It will die," she said.

Berry then brought forth his resolution calling for council to reject the proposal. By saying they won't go further without the approval of council the developers had "killed their own project," he said.

This comment drew more applause from the audience.

However the project wasn't rejected. After the unusual voting took place, council passed the second resolution approving the development in principle subject to the engineer's report.

Stevens said all concerns must be addressed before the township proceeds with any of the necessary steps to allow the development to proceed.

Lehman said that if any major changes to the proposal occur as a result of the report another public meeting will be required.

Council still has a lot of unanswered questions about Ray Moore's condominium development, but they are willing to give the developer a chance to address these concerns by submitting an engineer's report. Although they approved the project in principle, council has yet to pass the necessary rezoning.

ments, said Lehman, and the only way he knows of to allocate sewer and water is on a first-come, first-served basis.

There is a common misconception, said Mr. Wilson, that the 56-unit development would provide employment for local people. He said there would be little benefit to the local economy as opposed to a subdivision of 56 single-family dwelling from which Minden would "reap major benefits."

All the neighbouring land owners are opposed to the development, said Mr. Wilson. "How many people have to be opposed before council defeats this proposal?" he asked.

"If this goes ahead it will be unacceptable for this family to live in this neighbourhood."

Mr. Wilson also wondered if there was some sort of "unofficial" official plan which only members of council and the Planning Advisory Committee are privy to.

Lehman said the areas in the official plan which are designated for residential use can accommodate single-family dwellings, semi-detached houses and townhouses. Any development except single-family units must come before council for approval.

When the official plan was drafted there was no need for apartment buildings in Minden so no provision for them was made, said Lehman. He said the density ceiling of 36 units per hectare applies to townhouses and the density for apartments is higher.

Once council heard from the concerned parties Berry read his statement.

He said he has been involved with Moore's development for the past 19 months, both on council and the planning committee, and had studied relevant information from a variety of sources. In a development would bring increased tax revenue, expand the downtown area and provide more housing.

But when everything is taken into account, "there are more negatives than positives and more unanswered questions than answered questions," he said. "I can't support this development."

Berry's remarks drew applause from the neighbouring property owners in the audience.

Maher addressed the topic and said he shares many of Berry's concerns with regard to the project.

One of those concerns was that both accesses to the development would be from St. Germaine, a dead-end street. In

Lionesses busy in New Year

For Your Service

by Lorna Hicks, Minden Lioness

Hello again, from the ladies of the Minden Lioness Club.

At our last meeting in October, we had Judy Tery of Mary Kay to talk and show a film on exposure to sun and skin cancer and the need to be careful. We also had a visit from our region rep and guest from Omeme.

Several ladies attended the first District A16 meeting and dinner at Omeme October 12 and the design for our new District pin was chosen, one submitted by our President Ena Marion. The lucky draw prize was a pair of silk maple leaf pictures by a local artisan, Helen Newton of Season's in Silk. The next District meeting is November 23 at Cannington.

Our club had many things lined up to keep us busy in the coming year. Our ladies will still be helping Lions collect glasses, sell hockey pool tickets and Christmas cakes. The Lions are planning a Santa Claus parade and we will be having a joint dinner in December. The ladies are again foregoing an exchange of gifts and collection of money will be matched by the club to sponsor Sleeping Children. Last year we collected enough for six. Some of our ladies will be going to Bobcaygeon to visit sister Lioness Club November 8. The ladies will serve at Lions dinners and we are again treating ourselves to a day out on November 30. For information call a Lioness or enquire at Leon's Video.

There are many more things to come in the New Year. Watch for them. Lions International President William L. Wooland announced at the Lions 1989 International Convention in Miami he is a Lioness as well as a Lion. He is a member of Mount Pleasant Lioness Club, North Carolina, the oldest and first Lioness club organized Christmas Eve 1975. He called the Lioness Club program one of Lionism's greatest assets, providing members an opportunity for community service. You do not have to have a husband who is a Lion to become a Lioness.

A woman must be sponsored by a member of the Lioness Club and be approved by the club's board of directors and invited to join. If you are interested, contact us.

Young offenders charged in theft of three automobiles

During the week of October 9 to 15, officers of the Minden OPP Detachment investigated 76 general occurrences and 12 traffic accidents with seven injuries.

THEFTS

—A Makita grinder and a socket set were stolen from a property on Airport Road in Stanhope Township.

—A 10 horsepower Johnson outboard motor was stolen from a property on North Kennis Lake Road.

—Motorcycle parts for a Honda XL125S and a Kawasaki KV100 were stolen from a home in Tory Hill.

—A 14-foot Thorn aluminum boat was stolen from the Sherborne Lake Landing.

—A cover for a 16-foot boat was stolen from Lakeshore Boat Repair in Haliburton.

YOUTHS CHARGED

Investigation into the theft of three automobiles in the Haliburton area during the week of October 9 to 15 resulted in charges being laid against three young offenders. The thefts are believed to be unrelated.

ACCIDENTS

—There was a two-car accident on October 12 at the corner of Highway 35 and Newcastle Street. George Kerr of Stanhope Township was driving south on the highway. As he approached the intersection, his car collided with the vehicle driven by Bryan Kernohan of Minden. Both drivers were taken to Minden hospital. Kernohan was charged with failing to yield.

—David Lehman of Newmarket was taken to hospital Oct. 12 after he was involved in a single-car accident at the junction of Highway 35 and Deep Bay Road. Police report that Lehman was northbound when his vehicle went off the east side of the road. The car then crossed over and went off the west side of the road where it crashed into a rock cut. Lehman was taken to Minden hospital. He is charged with careless driving.

—Both the driver and a passenger were injured when the vehicle in which they were travelling went out of control on County Road 1 on October 13 and went into the ditch. Scott McKee of Haliburton was driving north on County Road 1, just south of County Road 18, when he lost control of the vehicle and crashed into the ditch.

Minden W I October meeting

The Minden Women's Institute met October 18 in the Common Room with president Mrs. Jeanne Sears in charge.

After the usual opening, the roll call had 21 members present and three guests were made welcome. The report given by Mrs. W. Moore showed that 12 cards had been sent since our last meeting. Collection for the card fund and pennies for friendship were taken.

Business then went with lunch offered by members for several occasions.

Mrs. Lyman Cox and Mrs. A. Kernohan are to attend the Victoria East District Workshop. Some other members will attend the luncheon on November 1. Mrs. Moore requested the members inform her as to people needing cards sent to them.

Mrs. Art Marsh then entertained us with "The Auctioneer".

Convenor Mrs. A. Coulter, then gave her reading on "Criticism" which was excellent and she closed with an amusing verse. The meeting then adjourned with the next one being scheduled for November 15 at the same place at 2 p.m.

We all joined in singing "Happy Birthday" to members with birthdays in October and all enjoyed the delicious lunch and tea served by the committee.

Jeanne Sears, P.R.O.

Santa Claus parade on December 2

Saturday, December 2, 1989 is the Santa Claus Parade at 1 p.m. Chairman Bill Stackhouse and the committee have been very busy with arrangements. All service clubs are participating.

This column is being written before the next committee meeting so I cannot give all details. However, some are - Lions Club is supplying two trophies to be awarded for the best float in each category. One is for the best community group, being awarded in honour of Lion Cliff Lacey of the Minden Lions Club who passed away while in office. The other is for the best business float. These trophies will be kept for a year and reawarded for the next year's parade.

For Your Service

by Alan Thompson, Lions Club

Bands and the warm up room are being handled by two service organizations. The committee is hopeful the Legion Colour Party will lead the parade.

The parade will start and McKnight Drive, proceed along Main Street out the Bobcaygeon Road and along Prince Street to the Curling Rink. People in the parade will be able to warm up in the Curling Rink Lounge with coffee, hot chocolate, etc. Santa will return down town to the Fire Hall where the children can talk to him and receive a treat.

Lions are again selling Christmas cakes. The same good quality at the same price, $6, as last year. Cakes are available from all Lions and Lioness.

The Lions wish to thank the community for their support in our effort to have a Dialysis machine added to the Peterborough Hospital. We have over 600 names to hand over to the district committee. We would also like to know if there is anyone in the community who at present is travelling to Toronto to receive this treatment. Please let us know by calling Lion Maurice Boyd at 286-3714 or the writer at 286-3649.

Kid's Korner

by Jean Lacey

Hi Kids!

Here is another puzzle for you with a word list. Look in the diagram of letters for the words given in the list. Find them by reading up, down forward, backward and diagonally. They are all in a straight line and do not skip letters. Circle the words in the diagram and cross it off the list. It's as easy as that. Have fun!

Tips to avoid dryer fires

by Doreen Hawman

Poor venting systems and improper use are among the major causes of fires involving clothes dryers.

The Canadian Standards Association advise consumers of the following requirements that should be observed when connecting a clothes dryer.

The dryer must be exhausted to the outdoors to prevent large amounts of moisture and lint from being blown into the room; do not exhaust the clothes dryer into a chimney; use a non-combustible exhaust duct system no longer than that specified by the manufacturer; make sure that the exhaust duct system has no kinks, is not crushed and is properly supported. To insure safe proper installation, always refer to the manufacturer guide.

Fires have often been caused as a result of foreign articles finding their way into the element. It is very wise to check pockets for coins, paper clips, staples, rubber bands, and jewellery before putting garments into the dryer.

The Haliburton County Information Centre, in Haliburton, is open Monday to Friday 10 a.m. - 4 p.m. or call 457-2733.

For the convenience of residents in the Minden area, the centre in Minden is open Monday and Tuesday 10 a.m. - 4 p.m. or call 286-4100.

Program improves image of trades

The Community Industrial Training Committees (CITCs) of Ontario have initiated a campaign to change the public perception of the Skilled Trades. SKILLS OK is a long term project directed at business, industry, educators, parents, and youth designed to portray skilled occupations as the essential and financially rewarding careers they are, and to develop for them the respect that they deserve.

There is a widespread lack of appreciation for the contribution made by skilled workers to all aspects of our economy, social structures, and lifestyle. This lack of appreciation has led to the general misconception that skilled occupations are less valuable, less desirable, and less important than other types of work. Parents who are "blue collar" workers encourage their children to strive for "white collar" occupations in order to improve their "social status".

This can easily be seen in our schools. Educators have been aware of the sharp decline in technology studies enrollment for some time. A variety of suggestions have been proposed and innovations to revitalize technical education have been introduced, but the numbers have remained well below the levels of the 60's and 70's.

The decade of continued growth enjoyed by Ontario business and industry is being seriously jeopardized by a growing shortage of skilled workers. The situation is further complicated by the fact that today due to technological advances, many occupations that were once classed as semi-skilled require a level of knowledge

"WHERE THE ACTION IS"

Campaign launched in November

This year's Christmas Seal Campaign will be officially launched on November 1.

The target for Canada is $10 million and for Ontario $4.5 million. Victoria - Haliburton's target is $36,000.

The mailing of Christmas Seals has been the major source of support for the Lung Association since 1927, when it was agreed that "Christmas Seals" would be the official method for the Tuberculosis Association to appeal for funds. Today, the Lung Association fights all lung disease through community education programs.

Respiratory diseases are among the leading causes of death and disability in Canada. One in every five Canadians has respiratory problems caused by asthma, chronic bronchitis, emphysema, tuberculosis, pneumonia and many types of disorders.

It is estimated that over 600,000 Canadians suffer with chronic bronchitis and emphysema. Diseases of the respiratory system (including cancer of the respiratory system) rank as the third leading cause of death among Canadians. Nearly 26,000 Canadians (9,200 in Ontario) die as a result of diseases of the respiratory system each year. Lung cancer will become the leading cause of cancer death for Canadian women. Breast cancer is currently in first position.

Asthma affects the lives of more than 1,000,000 Canadians.

People with asthma usually have "twitchy" airways. Bronchial tubes react to stimuli such as cold air, exercise, allergens, irritating substances in the air such as tobacco smoke, drugs such as aspirin, infections and colds.

57,000 admissions to hospital are made each year for the treatment of asthma.

320,000 days are spent in hospital each year for the treatment of asthma.

Each year, there are approximately 29,000 admissions to Canadian hospitals for the treatment of asthma in children under 15 years of age.

Canadian statistics state that there are 378,000 admissions to hospital each year for the treatment of respiratory diseases - that is more than 1,000 admissions each day.

Canadians are in hospital more than 3 million days due to respiratory problems. Respiratory diseases are by far the leading cause of hospitalization for babies less than one year old and for children from one to 14 years.

Funding for world-class research is distributed through the Ontario Thoracic Society, the medical section of the Lung Association. Approximately $750,000 will be contributed from Ontario, with more than $2 million in total targeted to reach projects across Canada in 1989.

Lung Association programs are reaching more people each year. For example:

- Air Force Asthma Program is a program for asthmatic children and their parents.

- The Lungs Are For Life School Program, focus on health education and smoking prevention.

- Countdown is a stop

What is wife assault?

The term wife assault is applied to physical, sexual, or psychological violence by a man toward his partner. You don't have to be married to be a batterer or a victim. You may be living common-law. You may be a boyfriend or girlfriend. The assault can include one or more of the following:

- physical abuse; slapping, kicking, hitting, spitting, biting
- sexual abuse, forced sexual activity
- psychological abuse; control through fear, threats, destruction of property or pets i.e. "I'll kill myself", "You'll be sorry, just wait!", ripping your favourite dress, etc.

Study finds that little is known about skilled trades and training that has put them into the skilled category. As a result, the demand for skilled workers is accelerating.

In a key study carried out by the Kitchener-Waterloo-Guelph Training Advisory Committee with the co-operation of Wilfred Laurier University, it was found that 70 per cent of high school students expect to go on to university or college upon graduation and that 80 per cent of the parents expect their children to attend university. High school programs are selected on the basis of these expectations. In fact, only 30 per cent of graduates pursue post-secondary education.

In the same study it was found that most students and parents had little knowledge of the apprenticeship program or of the nature of skilled trade work. It is not surprising then, that the survey found a general attitude that "skilled trades are fine, but not for me!"

Through the SKILLS OK

campaign CITCs want to encourage young people to view the skilled occupations as "careers" rather than as "jobs", and to adopt an education-path which will prepare them for the career-path of their choice. Over the next five years projects and resources will be developed that will carry the message that it is OK to fix cars, repair computers, design and make tools and machines and to cook gourmet meals. It is OK to pursue careers in the skilled trades. SKILLS OK will re-establish the respect that skilled workers deserve.

The Local CITC (Bancroft-Haliburton Commu-ity Industrial Training Committee) is working closely with local boards of education and business people to promote the SKILLS OK concept in this area.

Contact Doug Field at 613-332-2466 or 1-800-267-2357 to obtain more information, or to order SKILLS OK promotional material.

Wife assault affects 600 local women

"You're stupid", "You can't do anything right", "You're crazy, nobody will believe you", etc.

You are not the only one: Physical, sexual and emotional abuse happens to women in all income and educational levels. In Haliburton County an estimated 600 women are presently abused (Conservative figures).

You do not cause the abuse: You have a right to say what you think and live without physical, sexual or emotional abuse.

You do not have to put up with it: It is a crime for your partner to hit you. It also is a crime for him to force you to have sex. Police officers should and will lay charges if they believe you have been assaulted.

If you leave it is not desertion: In Ontario, if you leave your husband or common-law partner after he has abused you, you are not deserting him.

The courts may award you financial support, custody of the children and the right to stay in your home.

If you are being abused, do not keep it a secret: There is no need to be ashamed or embarrassed. You are not to blame for the abuse.

You can increase your safety by telling people you trust about the abuse.

If you are hurt - get medical help. Your doctor will keep the visit confidential.

A tale of three women

by Joel Levis

Two summers ago, we all benefitted from the presence in the County of author Susan Swan who worked throughout the library system from Branch to branch as a "writer-in-libraries", a government supported program which has since disappeared into bureaucratic limbo.

Susan worked with any local people on their reading projects, providing many individual assessments from her small, sunless office below the Dysart Branch in Haliburton.

At the time, she was working on a book about the golden girls. Not the ones on television but rather, three others who lived and shared life during the 1950's under the summer sun, and around a lake of calming beauty. They were also creating their own dreams and their own identities.

Highly competitive, they return to the same lakeside in the more adult days of the 1960's when their games are more serious and have far greater implications. As they compete for the attention of one man, their own worlds are ripped apart. And therein lies the tale.

Susan told us long ago that the phrase "golden girls" was in use for her novel before the TV show took off. Here's a chance to meet some different golden girls and explore their world with them. And maybe re-acquaint yourself with Susan through her work.

The Last of the Golden Girls is available through your local branch of the Haliburton County Public Library.

DRAFT FOREST MANAGEMENT PLAN REVIEW VICTORIA COUNTY AGREEMENT FOREST

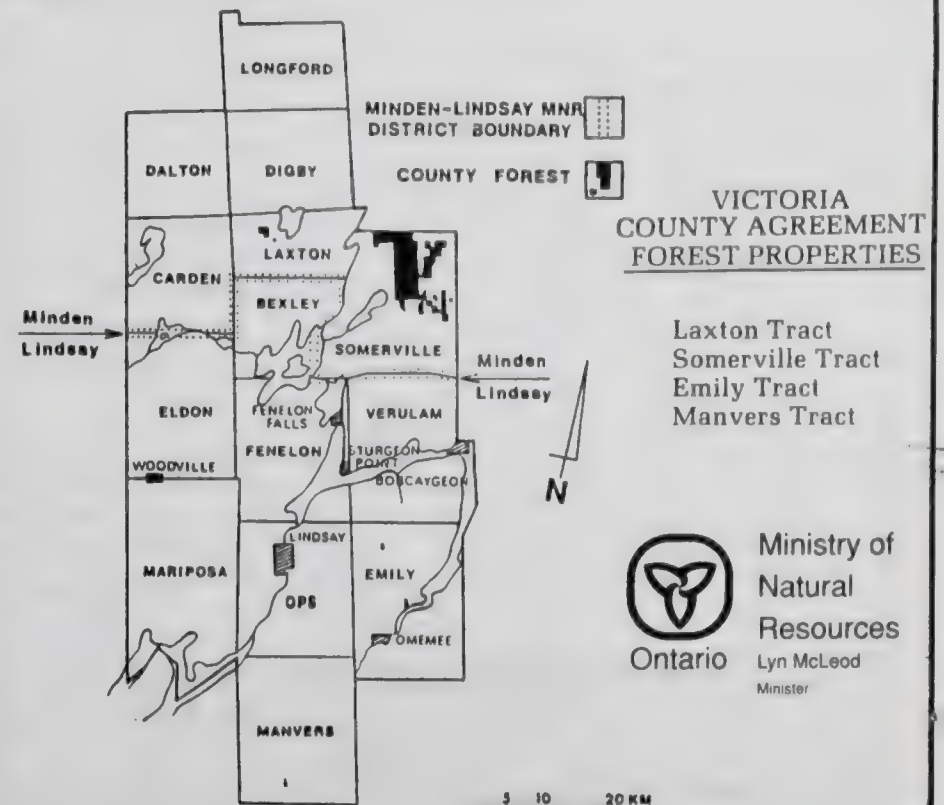

The Minden District of the Ontario Ministry of Natural Resources has, with the assistance of The County of Victoria, prepared a draft Forest Management Plan for the Victoria County Agreement Forest. The draft plan, which addresses the planning period April 1, 1990 to March 31, 2010, will be available for inspection and comments by any interested parties, for a period of thirty days (exclusive of statutory holidays) commencing December 1, 1989.

The draft plan identifies all potential areas of timber harvest, renewal and maintenance for a 20 year period from 1990 to 2010, and specific areas of proposed operations during the first five year operating period (1990-1995). The draft plan also relates to other resources such as wildlife, fisheries, and resource uses such as recreation. The draft plan has been prepared in accord with the concept of Integrated Resource Management (IRM) which is defined as "the coordination of resource management programs so that long-term benefits are optimized and conflicts between programs are minimized."

You are cordially invited to inspect the draft Forest Management Plan for the Victoria County Forest at the Minden District Office of the Ministry of Natural Resources, or by appointment at the Lindsay District Office, OMNR, 322 Kent Street West, Lindsay, during the period December 1, 1989 and January 16, 1990. CARD OF THANKS

I would like to thank everyone who sent cards, flowers and gifts while in Princess Margaret Hospital, and many thanks to Father Brian.

Marie Austen

The ladies of St. Paul's ACW wish to thank everyone for their participation in the thrift sale October 21, who made it a big success.

To all of those wonderful friends and staff (past and present) who made a great party. For the excellent food, the lovely gifts, the beautiful cake, the bird and the touching words and autographs. To the Faurey's; who have more than once welcomed the entire staff into their home. To my S.S. buddy T.L. for my very own song, and especially to my very lovable DORT (oops), I mean DOT, who's efforts in pulling all this together was nothing less than amazing. To Ken and Marg whose confidence in me has allowed me to grow as a person, friend and manager. I'll miss ya'. The words "Thank you" are not enough.

Love,
Wendy H.
